Issue: How to eradicate gender, homophobic, xenophobic, racist and anti-Semitic conflicts on a European scale?

Author: Hungary

As the delegation of Hungary, first of all we're truly thankful for being invited to this conference and we wish all delegates and chairs a pleasant conference.

Our nation is an EU member state located between the Alps-Dinaric Alps-Carpathian mountain cluster, on the Hungarian plane, effectively making it a landlocked country.

Our government has been criticized by political entities all around the world for our policies on homosexual couples and LGBTQIA+ propaganda so this is an issue that concerns us very much. Firstly, we as the Hungarian government think that children shouldn't be involved in these arguments concerning homosexual rights and such whereas they don't understand these concepts fully and therefore they cannot develop a reliable opinion on these matters concerning adults.

Xenophobia and racism are some of the harsh realities of today's world. As the Hungarian government, we do not support any kind of Chauvinism as it is the ideological basis of racism and xenophobia. In the Hungarian constitution, 13 minorities including Armenian, Bulgarians, Croatians, Germans, Greeks, Polish, Roma, Romanians, Ruthenians, Serbians, Slovaks, Slovenians and Ukrainians are fully recognized and looking at the cultural differences of these people with the Magyars, it is safe to say that amongst these 13 minorities, Romanians, Slovaks and the Romanis are the ones who suffer the most due to recent historical context. Apart from this being an expected result, Hungary aims to eliminate these prejudicial ideas by burying grudges of the past.

Since 2019, we've taken many measures against all sorts of discrimination by implementing scholar programs for children, by creating new training programs for policemen to train with state advised veterans, by including the Romanis in the "National Social Inclusion Strategy" and many more. We wish to continue these positive developments by following the future decisions taken by the EU parliament and by the collaborative measures of the ECRI (European Commission against Racism and Intolerance).
